Description

Precisely adjustable hinges for optimal alignment! The MUNK Profiltechnik hinge made of durable zinc die-cast allows stepless horizontal adjustment and ensures permanently reliable connections for doors, flaps, and movable components.

High-Quality Construction for Continuous Use

- Zinc die-cast body: Sturdy 300 g construction with black powder coating for corrosion protection and an appealing appearance
- Precision bearing: Plain axle with black washers for smooth, long-lasting movement
- Compact dimensions: 80×40×4.5 mm – ideal for profile constructions without protrusion

Adjustable Installation for Perfect Alignment

Horizontal adjustability: The hinge can be fine-tuned horizontally after installation – ideal for precisely aligning doors and flaps without time-consuming disassembly. Perfect fit: Compensates for assembly tolerances and allows post-installation fine adjustment for perfect closing behaviour.

Versatile Application Possibilities

Specially developed for MUNK profile constructions – from lightweight maintenance hatches to robust access doors on enclosures and control cabinets. The adjustable design enables professional solutions even in complex installation situations.

Typical Applications

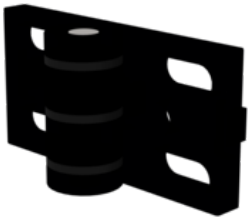

- Machine enclosures: Adjustable doors and service flaps for precise closing
- Control cabinet technology: Professional door solutions with post-installation adjustability
- Testing equipment: Movable protective covers and access panels
- Workstations: Foldable workstation elements and storage solutions
- Safety systems: Reliable door connections for protective and barrier systems

Discover the MUNK hinge – the adjustable connection for movable components, aligned perfectly today and working reliably tomorrow.
